To Whom it may concern,

I came to know Evin Anderson in September of 2010, and since that time, have witnessed an endless wealth of talent and ability. Beginning as an actor, Evin took on a role in my production of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest." This role was 100% outside his type and character, but he trusted, invested and jumped right in. Over a seven-week rehearsal period, he mastered it with great focus and commitment. He was a blessing to this director, as well as a capable hand in many other capacities on the production side, including set work, networking, marketing and publicity.

Another talent of Evin's is photography. Having grown in this field along with his Father, Evin's eye for a good shot, added to his actual talent as a photographer, has been truly beneficial to the multiple organizations he's become involved with since moving to the East Coast after his college graduation.

To that end, in the short time I have known him, Evin's amazing skills in networking have exposed him to a number of opportunities as an actor, producer and director theatrically. He has made many friends and contacts, most (if not all) would support him however he asked them to. He is an honest, faithful and hard-working individual, who commits to something 100% and follows through on it through completion.

After working together theatrically, Evin also invited me and my company into his literary side. JAC Publishing is currently in the process of publishing Evin's work as a playwright. He has a gift for dialogue and understands the need for characters to have depth in addition to having something to say. I can only hope that JAC's efforts can best introduce Evin's writing to the theater community, taking his name and work further into the public and theatrical eye, as it deserves to be seen.

In closing, from what I have seen of and experienced with Evin directly, his future is literally exploding before him in a number of areas that he will be able choose from. I'd be happy to focus and recommend him in just one area, but my hope is that he will be able to use this letter wherever he chooses to send it. Truthfully, I feel he will excel in whatever he takes on, and those who invest in him will reap the benefits of aligning themselves with him.

Sincerely,
